1. INFORMATION WE COLLECT

When you use the Services, we collect Personal Information and Usage Data.

In this Privacy Statement, “Personal Information” means information about an identified or identifiable natural person. Personal Information includes: (1) contact data (such as e-mail address, telephone number and employer); (2) demographic data (such as gender, date of birth and postal code); and (3) certain Usage Data (defined below).

Certain subsets of Personal Information, such as information about health or medical status and Location Data (defined below), are characterized as sensitive (collectively, “Sensitive Personal Information”) and may be subject to stricter regulation and consent requirements than other information. Before providing it to us, we urge you to carefully consider whether to disclose your Sensitive Personal Information. If you do provide Sensitive Personal Information to us, you consent to its use and disclosure for the purposes and in the manner described in this Privacy Statement.

“Usage Data” is information about an individual’s activity on or through the Services that, by itself, does not identify the individual, such as browser type, operating system and webpages visited. How We Respond to Browser "Do Not Track" Signals. Some web browsers incorporate a "do-not-track" ("DNT") or similar feature that signals to websites with which the browser communicates that a visitor does not want to have his/her online activity tracked. If a digital service that responds to a particular DNT signal receives the DNT signal, the browser can block that digital service from collecting certain Personal Information about the browser's user. As of the Effective Date not all browsers offer a DNT option and DNT signals are not yet uniform.

For this reason, Cronos Group along with many other digital service operators do not currently respond to DNT signals. For more information about DNT signals, visit allaboutdnt.com.

IMPORTANT NOTE: Under applicable law, Cronos Group may be unable to comply with a request to amend or remove information that was provided to Cronos Group by a healthcare professional or by a consumer regarding an adverse medical reaction.

We retain information as long as it is necessary and relevant for our operations. When your Personal Information is no longer needed for our business or legal purposes, we dispose of it by deleting or anonymizing it subject to applicable laws.

In accordance with applicable laws, we employ reasonable security measures intended to help protect the security of all information submitted through the Services. The security of information transmitted through the internet cannot, however, be guaranteed. We are not responsible for any interception or interruption of any communications or for changes to or losses of data through the internet. Users of the Services are responsible for maintaining the security of any password, user ID or other form of authentication involved in obtaining access to password protected or secure areas of the Services. Any access to the Services through your user ID and password will be treated as authorized by you. Unauthorized access to such areas is prohibited and may lead to criminal prosecution.

If we decide to use Personal Information in a manner that is materially different from the uses described in this Privacy Statement or otherwise disclosed to you, you will have the choice to allow or disallow any additional uses or disclosures of your Personal Information. However, in some cases, we will no longer be able to provide you with Services if you do not consent to uses of your Personal Information necessary to provide those Services. We will not make retroactive changes that reduce your privacy rights unless we are legally required to do so. Your continued use of the Services after the Effective Date constitutes your acceptance of the Privacy Statement.
